Contractors Board Helps Prepare Young Children For The Workforce
On “Take Our Daughters And Sons To Work” Day

(Henderson And Reno, NV) – On April 28, 2011, the Nevada State Contractors Board (NSCB) participated in “Take Our Daughters And Sons To Work” day.

About eighteen children from both offices of the NSCB attended the “Take Our Daughters And Sons To Work” day.

Children participated in a mock Disciplinary Hearing to experience what it’s like to work at a State Agency, where hearings are conducted on a regular basis. Children had the opportunity to put themselves in their parents’ or grandparents’ shoes.

Various activities centered on the theme “Invent The Future,” exposed children to different ideas and ways of thinking, including how to recycle and reuse what they already have.

“Take Our Daughters And Sons To Work” was launched over 18 years ago. The annual program is designed to show children what the work environment is like and help them understand the importance of education and a well balanced work and family life. One of the goals of this program is to help children connect what they learn at school with their future career goals.
